

Chad Energy Storage Company Export

What is Chad's export sector?

Despite facing challenges such as limited infrastructure, political instability, and vulnerability to climate change, Chad's export sector has shown growth, driven primarily by its energy resources, agricultural products, and livestock. The country's exports are directed mainly to countries in Europe, Asia, and neighboring African nations.

What products does Chad Export?

Chad exports a variety of by-products from its livestock industry, including animal feed, leather, and wool. These products cater to both regional markets in Africa and international markets, where they are used in manufacturing and agricultural production.

Why is Chad a good place to invest in solar power?

Chad's location in the Sahel, which features brilliant sunshine especially during the dry season, and lack of alternate fuel sources such as coal make solar power an attractive export and investment sector. Chad currently generates electricity by consuming oil.

How does Chad generate electricity?

Chad currently generates electricity by consuming oil. With the declining cost of new solar generation plants, the Government of Chad and development partners have prioritized solar power throughout the country. Machinery and parts for electricity transmission and distribution are also in demand. Opportunities

What is cnpcic doing in Chad?

A joint venture between CNPCIC and the Government of Chad's state-owned oil company, Societé des Hydrocarbures du Tchad (SHT), refines petroleum for export and domestic consumption at a 20,000 barrel-per-day refinery 40 km outside N'Djamena. Chad's natural gas sector is nascent. Stranded gas is flared.

Why is electrification important in Chad?

The Government of Chad and development partners like the World Bank are prioritizing electrification to promote economic growth and inclusion. Per capita electricity consumption is one of the lowest in the world and tariffs are among the highest.
